Elearning Localization

90 percent of people want to learn in their native language. Are you catering to your global audience?

acolad.

Elearning can boost knowledge retention by 60 percent. When delivered in native languages, success rates can go up to 97 percent.

It's no question elearning is a vital part of any company's training and talent development programs. The convenience of online classes makes them the preferred and most effective method, especially for global companies with teams spread across different offices and locations.

However, when it comes to making elearning accessible for all, are you ready for the language and technology challenges that may arise? Adapting courses for multiple cultures can involve a bit of a learning curve, simply due to the myriad of pieces involved.

The good news? We're here to help you make elearning localization as efficient as possible.

Training experiences tailored for (global) success

At Acolad, we've worked alongside many companies specializing in elearning development for worldwide audiences.

We understand the unique requirements and challenges that go hand in hand with global training programs, including technology, delivery and system integrations.
